Masters of Computer Science (240 points)
Course Enrolment Request Form

Once you have accepted your offer into the Master of Computer Science (240 points), you need to choose the courses that you intend to take in your first year. This accounts for 120 points of coursework. Please read this document thoroughly, and then discuss your course of study with the programme advisors. Email the Master Coordinator (MScCoordinator@cs.auckland.ac.nz)

The course advisor will help you to identify suitable courses. They will need to approve your course selections before you can be enrolled.

Once approved (and not before), you can apply for course concessions on Student Services Online. Any course without approval will be declined immediately. You must contact the course advisor for any changes in enrollment. If there is an issue with your enrollment or query about concessions please contact the student hub.

Please note that this form is not a manual enrollment form, but an indication of your intended course of study.

PLEASE TURN OVER
Please see the calendar for courses you can take (https://www.calendar.auckland.ac.nz/en/proreg/regulations-science/msc.html)

The program regulations detail the courses that you can take, and the GPA requirement that’s necessary to continue with your thesis component of your study.

Note that there is a requirement for continuation of your Masters programme. Please see the calendar for exact requirements. (https://www.calendar.auckland.ac.nz/en/proreg/regulations-science/msc.html).

What do I need to know when choosing my courses?

Most importantly, you need to make sure that you have the necessary prerequisite knowledge for the courses you intend to study. Many of the technical courses have specialised prerequisites and assume that you’ve studied particular topics as part of your Bachelors degree.

The University Calendar lists every course that’s offered in the University. Using the Calendar you can see a particular course’s prerequisites in terms of other University of Auckland courses. Using this information, you can compare what you have studied with what is required for you to take a particular course. The Calendar is accessible at:
