

Foreword

Welcome to Perth and the 12th Australasian User Interface Conference, the forum for user interface researchers and practitioners at the Australasian Computer Science Week 2011. AUIC provides an opportunity for user interface researchers in the areas of HCI, CSCW, and pervasive computing to meet with colleagues and with other computer scientists, and aims to strengthen the community of researchers in Australasia.

The papers presented in these proceedings have been rigorously reviewed. Each paper received at least three reviews. Out of 18 submitted papers, 8 papers were selected for presentation and publication. The breadth and quality of the papers reflects the dynamic and innovative Australasian research environment.

We offer our sincere thanks to the people who made this year's conference possible: the authors and participants, the program committee members and reviewers, the ACSW organizers, and the Australian Computer Society.
