

Preface

It is our great pleasure to welcome you to the 14th Australasian User Interface Conference (AUIC), held in Adelaide, Australia, January 29th to February 1st 2013, at the University of South Australia. AUIC is one of 11 co-located conferences that make up the annual Australasian Computer Science Week.

AUIC provides an opportunity for researchers in the areas of User Interfaces, HCI, CSCW, and pervasive computing to present and discuss their latest research, to meet with colleagues and other computer scientists, and to strengthen the community and explore new projects, technologies and collaborations.

This year we have received a diverse range of submission from all over the world. Out of 31 submitted papers, 12 papers were selected for full paper presentations and 6 were selected for posters. The breadth and quality of the papers reflect the dynamic and innovative research in the field and we are excited to see the international support.

Accepted papers were rigorously reviewed by the community to ensure high quality publications. This year we are excited to announce that all AUIC publications will now be indexed by Scopus (Elsevier) to help increase their exposure and citation rates.

We offer our sincere thanks to the people who made this years conference possible: the authors and participants, the program committee members and reviewers, the ACSW organizers, Scopus and the publisher CRPIT (Conference in Research and Practice in Information Technology).
